

Solution Offered In Plan To Merge County And City

A merger of all of York county and Toronto was suggested in a brief placed before the meeting of mayors and reeves by Warden Clive Sinclair at the weekend. The brief provided for housing accommodation, the lack of which is Toronto's main argument in favor of amalgamation, without the successive annexations of suburban municipalities which is proposed by the city.

Deputy-Reeve J. L. Spillette, Newmarket, represents the northern municipalities at the meetings of the mayors and reeves.

Housing grants of 75 percent from the federal government and 25 percent from the provincial government are available but Toronto does not have the land upon which to build. According to Reeve Sinclair, land in Etobicoke, Scarborough and North York townships could be made available under his scheme provided the services are paid for by the government. Approximately 250 acres of land could be made available with room for an estimated 3,000 homes.

Mr. Sinclair has also revealed that the combined assessment of Scarborough, Toronto and other surrounding municipalities would pay the cost of both primary and secondary schools in such new areas at an estimated cost amounting to one mill. It is believed by many that such a plan would eliminate the necessity for Toronto to amalgamate with the suburban municipalities.

Mr. Sinclair's metropolitan county plan outlines a proposal to allow certain services to be handled by local groups of municipalities which have interests in common. Amalgamation under the original proposal would force many people to move farther outside the city, in search of lower taxation areas, he said. The building problems in North York

New Series Tells Story Of 'Our New Canadians' Starts This Week, Page 5

This week's issue of the Era and Express has on Page 5, the first of a series of biographies of a few of the estimated 3,500 immigrants who have settled in Newmarket and district.

The series is begun with the intention of helping their neighbors become better acquainted with New Canadians, and by the contrast between their stories and our own, help bring a fuller measure of appreciation for the Canadian way of life. The editorial on Page 4, explains this purpose more fully.

would in turn be shifted to Vaughan township, out of the proposed greater city and the problem would only repeat itself there, according to Mr. Sinclair.

Wanda Adamson, formerly Chief Big Canoe, daughter of Chief Big Canoe of Georgina Island reserve on Lake Simcoe, is now the clearing agent for handcraft work done on tea reserves. The birch canoe, needle cases and other articles she displays are sent to her and all the money goes to the Organization of Ontario Indians. It will be displayed at the Ontario Camping exhibition soon.

TOM, GINGER ACCIDENT FUND SUCCESSFUL

"The fund to raise money for two of our boys has been a complete success," said Les Beazer, chairman of the Tom and Ginger fund in Aurora Monday night. Mr. Beazer said that the fund total is not known.

While no donations have been asked for yet, any person wishing to give money may do so by sending it to Lorne C. Lee, the administrator of the fund, Mr. Beazer said.

The members of the committee who arranged the dance and sold tickets for it decided that it should be made known that expenses for the evening totalled $182.14. One hundred dollars was used for the rent of the dance hall, $65 for the orchestra and $17.14 for advertising and printing tickets.

It is not known how much has been raised by the dance. A limited return of unsold tickets has tied up the committee but it is expected that a complete financial statement will be released as soon as the dance profit is known.

None of the money, except for the payment of bills, has been distributed yet. The money has been banked under the signatures of Stewart Patrick and Lorne Lee. The distribution of money will be decided at the next meeting of the committee which will be held on March 6 in the police office.

Human Polar Bear Swims Sat. 'Even If It's Freezing Brickbats'

A polar bear will swim in a portable pool in the shade of the willow trees in Lions park, Newmarket, on Saturday. This polar bear with a unique human likeness and, as Ginger, the office cat reports, a built-in thermostatic control system, will feature a variety of acts at 2 p.m. on Saturday. His name is "Corky", the Human Polar Bear. He weighs 300 and several odd pounds.

Sponsored by several local businesses, "Corky" will present a number of acts in his large, portable swimming tank with no charge or collection for the anticipated large crowds. The better the weather, the better "Corky" performs his stunts, he says. "I don't care if it is freezing brickbats; the show will go on," he said this week. He is at his best when he must take an ice pick and remove the cat-ice from the surface of his swimming tank.

Included in his acts are eating and drinking stunts in which he imitates a man eating and smoking under water. He is to give a demonstration of a bear "roll" and other revolutionary swimming strokes.

The bear has travelled from coast to coast featuring his Arctic antics. Once he swam 225 miles non-stop down the Mississippi. In the tropics, he is featured as the Human Cork, master floater, sometimes appears at the C.N.E. They say that Olsen and Johnson may come and go but Corky goes on forever.

A full program of the events at the Lions park Saturday afternoon appears on page 11. An off the record interview appears in Catnip, top right hand corner, page four, which reveals the more serious side of the bear's nature.

Red Cross workers in Newmarket will canvass every home during the month of March. The national campaign for funds for the Red Cross will be from March 1 to March 25 and the work of the local Red Cross branch is a reminder of the humanitarian efforts which go on all the time and which are worthy of public support. Chairman of the campaign in Newmarket is A. C. Lord, manager of the Newmarket branch of the Bank of Toronto.

Included in the work of the local Red Cross branch is aid to veterans and their families both in Newmarket and the surrounding district. In emergencies such as a fire in a family home, bedding and food is supplied by the branch.

A constant supply of cod liver oil supplied by the local branch is at the disposal of the Newmarket public health nurse who uses it at her own discretion among children whose parents cannot afford to buy it. A loan cupboard at the office of the public health nurse is also kept in constant supply. The Red Cross furnishes layettes, quilts and other articles which are given to destitute families.

A Red Cross sewing day is held once a month at Trinity United church when women of the local branch work all day to keep such supplies on hand at all times. Women of the town contribute knitted wear to help increase the supplies.

Relief work is constantly investigated by Mrs. A. J. Cody, secretary of the Red Cross branch.

She keeps in contact with all emergency cases in the town and district and families who have suffered loss through fire or through any emergency are completely outfitted with sheets, bedding, clothing and food if necessary. Much of this kind of work has been done in the Holland Landing district.

Milk is supplied for families in town by the Red Cross as well as the Lions club. Whenever cases of tuberculosis are discovered, the public health nurse notifies the Red Cross which in turn supplies milk to the children who need it.

Campaign captains will organize the drive in Newmarket by wards and canvassers will cover all homes to raise funds for the Red Cross so it can carry on its work in Newmarket and on a national basis.

SILAS ARMITAGE, 100

TWO CITIZENS CENTENARIANS IN NEWMARKET

Silas Armitage, 21 Timothy St., Newmarket, will be 100 years old on Saturday. It is expected that Mr. Armitage will celebrate his birthday quietly. A younger brother, Dr. C. W. Armitage, and his wife, from Harbour Beach, Mich., will arrive at the Armitage home on Friday night.

Mr. Armitage has always been well known in Newmarket since he has lived within a mile of the town all his life. He was born on the ancestral farm at the corner of Eagle and Yonge Sts. which was first settled by his great-grandfather, Amos Armitage, in 1804.

Next Thursday, March 2, Mrs. James Sutherland will have reached her 102nd birthday. She was the first centenarian in Newmarket since the late Sir William Mulock. Mr. Armitage will be the first man to reach his 100th birthday since Sir William. Mrs. Sutherland lives at home with her daughter on Prospect St. and enjoys good health. She is a cousin of the late Robert Simpson.

Recently Mr. Armitage commented during his test for diabetes in the Newmarket survey, that he thought Newmarket to be the only place to live. He pointed out that the new subdivision on Eagle St. which was named after him is on property that was once part of his farm.

After Mr. Armitage gave up farming at Eagle St., he was appointed superintendent of the York County home at Yonge and Eagle Sts. In 1919 he retired and moved to his present home in Newmarket.

Hospital Deficit Lower In 1949, Will Need Support

The deficit during 1949 for York County hospital was a little more than $10,000. During the previous year, there was a deficit of $16,000. This was reported by Frank Courtney in an outlined report at the annual meeting of the hospital board last night. The completed auditor's report has not been completed yet. The County of York has approved a grant of $15,000 toward the hospital, according to Arthur D. Evans, member of the board. Miss L. E. Thomas, superintendent, said that public support will be needed for future hospital expansion.

Miss Thomas, in a report to the board, said that the total admissions during 1949 was 2,224, an increase of 168 over last year. There were 639 births, believed to be a record, 58 deaths, of which five were newborn. The total number of patients discharged was 2,836 and a daily average of patients, 51.

Operations performed numbered 1,113 and x-rays taken were 2,019. The total number of patient days was 18,824 which was an increase of 180 patient days over the previous year. The dietary department served an average of 8,377 meals.

"We are quite hopeful that York County hospital will be proud to say it has a Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary," said Miss Thomas, in her report.

"There seems to be a very definite shortage of hospital beds for medical and surgical patients in our hospital which may be compensated by our shortage of nursing staff and difficulty in obtaining nurses. We are told there is a shortage of 9,000 nurses in Canada," said Miss Thomas.

Hospitals will need solid public support in order to conduct an expansion program successfully, raise endowment income or request the public to contribute funds to the hospital for worthwhile purposes," she said.

Re-elected directors for another year were K. M. R. Stiver, Frank Courtney and W. H. Eves. Chairman of the board is K. M. R. Stiver and other members are A. N. Belugin, Frank Bowser, George Byers, Dr. G. W. Macpherson, Mount Albert, Arthur D. Evans, Ross Linton, Aurora, A. C. Lord, R. Martin, W. Spear and P. J. Tod.

The complete text of Miss Thomas' report will appear in The Era and Express next week.

"Give A Man A Job" Era-Express Campaign Offers Free Ads

A "Give A Man A Job" campaign has been launched by The Era and Express this week. The campaign takes the form of free advertising in the "help wanted" classified columns of The Era and Express and an appeal to hire local men to do those odd jobs around the house or your place of business. This offer of free classified advertising continues throughout the month of March.

There are carpenters, painters, builders and handymen listed at the unemployment office who find a lack of employment in this off season. If you have rooms to be papered, painting to be done or other odd jobs, you are urged to advertise free of charge or call the unemployment office and see if there is a spare man to do your job.

There are 174 listed unemployed males and 26 females from the Newmarket district. These are the figures at the unemployment office. While the number of unemployed people is higher than at the same time last year, it is not suggested that the causes are other than seasonal ones. At the same time there is a number of employees in Newmarket who do not work a full eight hours a day. Some of them are ready to accept part time additional employment.

Perhaps there are some floors in need of a good cleaning. Maybe the attic needs a going over. That old lawn furniture could stand a bit of repair work and paint. Maybe some shingles on the roof were lifted by the recent storms. Citizens are urged to do the work now instead of leaving it until spring when help is scarce.

During the months of January, February and March, more is heard about unemployment than at any other time in the year. During the late spring, summer and autumn, there is little complaint. The reason, of course, is climate. In winter some industries do not produce a large quantity of employment, road construction is at a standstill as well as railway work; construction of buildings is materially reduced and a number of other outdoor activities are cut down. Seasonal unemployment in a community is bad for everybody so everyone is urged to do repairing, decorating, overhauling now instead of later.

Last year's unemployment figures were slightly lower in the Newmarket district. The area covered by the local office has been decreased since that time so this year's unemployment figures would indicate a higher incidence of unemployment.

The free "help wanted" advertising offer in The Era and Express continues for a month. Use the columns and help "give a man a job".

Seeks Ownership Before Improving Aurora Public Library

No action has been taken to improve the Aurora public library. Until a meeting of the public school board and the property committee of the council has been held no definite action is expected. The property used by the library is owned by the public school board.

According to estimates presented at Monday's meeting of council, it will cost almost $1,300 to make necessary repairs to the interior of the building before decorating can be started. The majority of the councillors indicated that spending that much money on property owned by another public body would be foolish. It was recommended by councillor Chas. Davies that the public school board give the property to the town.

The chief expenditure would be the lowering of the ceiling. Estimates ranged from $720 to $970, depending on the material. The lighting asked for by the delegation representing the library board at the last meeting of council would cost $366, while a cheaper range of lights could be furnished at any price from $89 up. The installation of fluorescent lighting, as requested, would call for the re-wiring of the building.

Deputy-reeve R. H. Corner said that a cheaper light could be used with the lowering of the ceiling. He also suggested that when the new lights are installed in the clerk's office, the old ones could be given to the library. Mayor Alex. Bell and several of the councillors favored the idea.

The deputy-reeve pointed out that the public school will be vacant within a few years and the library during that time will probably be moved from its present location.

In reading the report to council, councillor Victor Jones, chairman of the property committee, called the present library a disgrace to the town. He said, "Something should be done and done now but we might get it more cheaply than this."

Most of the councillors said that the work on the library was needed but that they did not wish to spend public funds on a building that was not the town's property. It is expected that the property committee will meet the school board and present a report at the next regular council meeting.

AT KIWANIS FESTIVAL

Singers Bring Fame To Aurora

Aurora singers have left a big mark on the Kiwanis Music Festival. With the festival only three days old, Aurora has won six best performance shields, has come second in three other events and also earned one third place award.

Most thrilling of the victories so far was earned by the junior choir of the Aurora United church. Singing before a capacity crowd at Eaton auditorium in Toronto, Monday night, the junior choir of the church won the best performance shield for Sunday-school Choirs under 18.

Mrs. Adj. Adjudicator Russell Green of Birmingham who officiated at the singing said he was astounded at the performance by the Aurora children.

Also on Monday, four other first place awards were won by Aurora representatives. The girls' chorus of the public school won in its division as did the public school mixed choir. Soloist Janet Langdon, competing in the under 16 years of age group, won all honors along with Ann Stephenson in the under 18 group.

While victories seemed to be falling on Aurora easily Monday afternoon, two groups were defeated by the narrow margin of one point. The triple trio for girls and boys, representing Aurora, missed by only one mark in the all-boys' chorus.

Of three soloists singing at the competition on Tuesday, all finished favorably with one winning, one placing second and one earning third place honors. Dawna Case was the victor of the afternoon as she stole the show in the under 11 class.

Also competing in the under 11 class was Lorraine Fortier who performed brilliantly to win herself a third place prize. In the under 15-years-of-age class, Margaret Barranger placed second.

All contestants who have entered so far have been pupils of Illyd Harris. Mr. Harris, although he has been pleased with the performance of the choir and soloists to date, felt that had more time been allowed for practices, there would have been more victories. Mr. Harris explained that the choir had only been able to practice twice a week in actual preparation for the festival. Those practices had been held during quarter-hour recess periods.

Later this week, more Aurora choirs will compete in the Kiwanis Music Festival and Mr. Harris feels certain that there will be more victories.

VETERANS' PARTY

I was a guest at the veterans' Valentine party in the town hall last Saturday afternoon and I assure you it was a most enjoyable one. I think it was a splendid idea, having it now on St. Valentine's Day instead of at Christmas when the children really get too much all at one time.

It was the annual party for the wives and the children and president Alf Elphinstone and Mrs. Elphinstone, with their helpers, certainly made the afternoon a wonderful success! The invitations set the time at 3 o'clock and the fun began soon after that hour. We started with a jolly song sung by Mrs. Linden at the piano—then five or six films were shown with principal S. Jefferson of the Alexander Muir school running the projector and how the children did enjoy them!

One little three-year-old told me he would like to see "Little Black Sambo" all over again. One was trying to give a cat a bath to get it ready for the cat show. Another one was "Knock, Knock"—you might say the adventures of a woodpecker. Each film was delightfully funny, and thoroughly enjoyed by both the small folk and their parents. Then the children played musical chairs with Mrs. Linden again at the piano, and the fun was fast and furious and the same had to be played several times to satisfy the children.

Buffet Supper

Then came the supper! The children were lined up and marched to the long buffet table set so attractively for St. Valentine's with plenty of red hearts, etc.—and each child was given a plate and a Valentine table napkin—a plate filled as full as possible with sandwiches of different kinds, a heart-shaped tart with delicious red jelly and cookies and sweet biscuits. They were given their choice of chocolate milk or a soft drink. When the children were all settled and busy enjoying their supper, the men served the mothers. We had coffee, if we preferred, with a plate of sandwiches and cake. The children all had fancy caps and the hall looked like a huge flower garden of gay colors.

Then the children were again lined up and this time each received a little cup of ice cream with its accompanying wooden spoon—and when they were served, again the mothers were looked after. Last of all they were again lined up and each child was given a fancy horn or a windmill—I can't describe what followed, I'll leave it to your imagination, but what a grand good time they had! And as if that wasn't enough, as each child left the hall, he was given an orange and a bag of candy. I wonder if I may be allowed a comment—for I would like to say how sensible it is to have an afternoon party like that for the children were not tired or sleepy—and the bounteous meal took the place of supper at home. They all left the hall as happy as larks, and you could hear the horns still telling the world about it as they reached the sidewalk. Lucky the horns were kept till the last! Much credit is due to the officers and the committee in charge for such a particularly enjoyable party—and those of us who were just guests want to say a big "thank you".

And last of all we must hand a bouquet to Mr. Bill Blight who captivated young and old in his capacity as the Newmarket Veterans' conception of a clown, so beloved of children everywhere. Most Canadian textile mills towns bringing employment close to people in rural areas.

York Seed Fair,
Bacon Show March 14
In Newmarket

The York Seed Fair and Bacon Show is being held for the second year at the town hall, Newmarket, March 14. Last year the Seed Fair had a record entry for exhibits and the attendance was doubled that of any previous year. Judges of the Bacon Show last year rated bacon as the highest quality in the province.

The Seed Show is sponsored by the York County Crop Improvement Association and the Bacon Show by the York Hog Producers' Association. Township committees are now selecting hogs for processing into Wiltshire sides for the inter-township competition. Township prizes are given for the best hogs. Each township committee selects three hogs for slaughter a week in advance of the fair. They are processed and cured and brought from the packing plant back to Newmarket as Wiltshire sides for competition.

A large seed fair is anticipated again this year. Many crops having been a disappointment last year, it is expected that there will be a keen demand for seed and the directors urge every farmer with seed for sale to enter exhibits of what he has. Exhibitors reported a number of enquiries for seed following the fair. The ten bushel lots of registered or certified oats and barley will be sold by auction at the fair. The seed fair offers a good opportunity for anyone wanting seed to contact seed growers.

Dr. J. R. Weir from the field husbandry department of O.A.C. will give an address at the hall at 2.30 p.m. Dr. Weir travelled in England and on the continent to study the hay and pasture program there. He will talk about forage plants for hay and pasture crops and give a report on his trip. Dr. G. P. McRostie, head of the field husbandry department at O.A.C. and Dr. Weir will judge the class for baled and chopped hay and also the class of cob corn.

At 3 p.m. W. S. McMullen of the Dominion Livestock production services will judge and discuss the Wiltshire sides on display. Exhibits will be brought into the hall in the morning and the program starts at 1 p.m. Similar to last year's fair, a power conveyor will carry exhibits up to the second floor of the town hall.

On the morning of March 14, a junior farmers' seed judging competition will be held in the boardroom of the agricultural offices on Botsford St.

Other judges at the fair will be T. W. Brennan, plant products division, Toronto, and George M. Gray, plant products division, Barrie, will judge seeds. Judging potatoes and turnips will be R. E. Goodin, crops branch, Toronto. There will be no admission charge at the fair.

Archery Enthusiast
Mixes Work, Hobby
Moves Firm Here

A new industry has been established on north Main St., just outside of Newmarket. The Tillmark Archery Supplies, founded by Harry Markham in the basement of his Long Branch home, is being settled in a remodelled barn just north of the cemetery. The business grew out of Mr. Markham's own intense interest in archery.

In 1943, when archery was still only a hobby, Mr. Markham won the Dominion Marksman Expert's shield for scoring 5,918 hits out of 6,000 shots. Since then, he hasn't used a gun. Among his trophies is the Scorton Silver Arrow which he won in 1948. The Scorton Silver Arrow has been in competition since 1873.

At the present time, Mr. Markham is remodelling the interior of an old barn on the Main St. N. property he has purchased in order to get his business back in operation. Formerly he manufactured his equipment from the basement of his Long Branch home.

Skilled Employees
Because the manufacture of archery equipment is 90 percent hand work, skilled employees are required and it is likely that Mrs. Markham will probably take her turn in the shop at the rear of their home.

One of the purposes of the Markhams is to organize an Archery club in Newmarket. According to Mr. Markham, archery is a family sport and knows no age limits. Of particular interest to him is deer hunting. Mr. Markham said that hunting with bow and arrow places more emphasis on the hunt. Chances of hitting a deer with a gun are about three to one while chances of hitting a deer with a bow and arrow are about 30 to one. For that reason, the use of the bow and arrow for hunting aids conservation.

A veteran of the R.C.A.F. in which he held the rank of flight lieutenant, Mr. Markham made 15 operational flights. During lifeboat drill he injured his arm and still suffers from it. The hospital classes the injury as traumatic arthritis. Ordinarily, his arm does not bother him but

In an attempt at paraphrasing: "Ask and you shall be told!"

Last week in this column we asked if anyone knew where Sir John Franklin had stayed when he passed through Newmarket. The answer, or rather, answers, came on Friday morning. The telephone rang steadily all morning until we had finally to call a halt until we could catch up on our notes on all the information given us.

There was no doubt in the minds of those who called us that the double house, wooden structure, on Eagle St., just west of Andrew St., was the house where the Arctic explorer stayed. One informant told us that the house had formerly stood near the site of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on the corner, and had been moved.

Sir John was on his way to Churchill where he was to meet his crew which had come by sea.

Postmaster Lawrie Cane's retirement prompted the sending to us of a photograph taken on Nov. 24, 1915, when the post office was opened. The picture shows a group of citizens and officials crowding before the Main St. door to the north. In the background is an unpaved Park Ave. with a couple of "horseless" buggies.

Those who are identified are W. J. Patterson, Dr. Wesley, E. W. Hunter, Wm. Dolan, Ed. Widdifield, postmaster, Jack Armstrong, M.P., and J. D. McKay, editor of the Express-Herald.

We were privileged to speak to the Newmarket branch of the Women's Institute on Thursday afternoon. The subject: preservation of historical sites. The members of the W.I. are in excellent position to encourage this work. Through their Tweedsmuir Book project, as well as a constant interest in historical research, they have built up a collective knowledge of the Newmarket and district past. If anyone or group can encourage a greater interest in the preservation of the historical sites about Newmarket, it will be the members of the W.I.

One of the pieces of information we picked up on Friday concerned a Dr. Beswick. He is said to have been the first doctor in Newmarket, and is reputed to have lived to the ripe old age of 118 years. Dr. Beswick was heart and soul concerned with the fortunes of Newmarket and is said to have given the Anglican church the land on which the Anglican Cemetery stands on Eagle St.

The cemetery is possibly the greatest single outrage to the common sense in the vicinity. The condition it is in is not only an affront to early citizens of the district but it is an eyesore, the worst possible advertisement Newmarket has. Situated on the outskirts of town, visible to the thousands who travel past it on Eagle St., it can only evoke contempt for the indifference which permits its continued existence in that state.

Everybody talks about it, including ourselves, but nobody does anything about it.

At the very least, a record could be made of the names on the tombstones, and the ground landscaped into a pleasant site, a memorial to those who helped found Newmarket.

"Our New Canadians"

An estimated 3,500 new Canadians have located in Newmarket and district since the end of the war. They represent all European countries and the United Kingdom. Most of them are farmers and have settled on Holland Marsh. Others have bought farms of their own and are engaged in mixed or dairy farming. But other occupations are represented among them. If present indications are evidence, they are becoming a part of the community wherever they locate, adapting themselves to local custom and practice.

Most of the new Canadians come to Canada on a contract basis in which they agree to work for a specified period as farm help or in other basic industries. When their contract period expires, a good many of them buy farms or enter business on their own. Many of them become employers. Others practise the professions for which they studied in their native lands. In the total, they represent a sizeable contribution to the Canadian economy. Their money buys Canadian-made products. Their jobs help create more jobs.

Not all new Canadians are desirable. Language difficulties have discouraged many an association between the new Canadian and his neighbor or employer. Some have a misunderstanding of their position in Canada. There have been a few who, told that Canadian streets were paved with gold, never recovered from their disillusionment. But these have been in the minority. New Canadians are human beings with the perfections and imperfections of the rest of us. There are bound to be a few who fail to measure up. We must not let the publicity given the failures blind us to the successes of the majority.

This week, The Era and Express begins a series of biographies of a cross-section of successful new Canadians with the two-fold purpose of encouraging a better understanding of their background and their contribution to the Canadian economy, and of encouraging a keener appreciation of the advantage of our own country. Though they come from all over Europe, they share a common motive: they came to Canada because they believe in the opportunities it offers anyone who is willing to work, and because they want to have again the freedom of choice we Canadians accept so matter-of-factly but which has disappeared in their home lands.

Canadians are sometimes a trifle incredulous that new Canadians should be so concerned with this personal freedom, this freedom of choice. The blight of communism is still something of an academic issue with most of us. The new Canadians have known its affect in their home lands and fled from it. We mention no names, or identification of any sort in this series because many of these new Canadians still have relatives in Europe and they fear retaliation. Does not that help bring home the danger communism represents?

We are proud to present this series of biographies of new Canadians. We earnestly hope they will be closely read. There is, we feel, a real lesson for us all in their stories.

Mr. Silas Armitage

Mr. Silas Armitage celebrates his 100th birthday on February 25 and the best wishes of all Newmarket go out to its "Grand Old Man".

Mr. Armitage takes his years lightly. Two weeks ago, in the interest of encouraging the diabetes survey, he was photographed taking his diabetes test. Mr. Armitage was not one to let the occasion pass lightly by. When the technician reached for his hand to take a blood test, he remarked: "I haven't had a young girl hold my hand in years." On the same occasion, he attributed his years to his ancestors who, he said, "were good living people".

These sallies of Mr. Armitage, somewhat unexpected to those who place age upon a pedestal and forget that the possessor of the years is human, have endeared him to generation after generation of Newmarket citizens. Indeed, his lifetime has spanned Newmarket's growth from humblest beginnings to its present prominence, and Mr. Armitage has always been an obliging and confident source for information on milestones of that growth.

The Armitage name is an old and a favored one in Newmarket. Mr. Armitage was born on the farm his great grandfather, Amos, settled at the corner of Eagle and Yonge Sts. in 1804. He attended school in Newmarket and farmed the family acres until appointed superintendent of the York County home. He retired to Newmarket in 1919. Since then, he has been a familiar figure to those passing by the Armitage home on Timothy St.

Actively interested in contemporary events, as well as retaining his memories of the past, Mr. Armitage has kept up with the growth of his town. During last year's election, although hesitant at going to the polls, he remained up late to hear the results and had great pleasure from the Liberal victory. As each birthday has come in recent years, he has always had a pertinent comment or two to make about Newmarket activities or issues.

But this is not to record Mr. Armitage's life and accomplishments. That is done elsewhere in this issue. Here we are concerned only that Mr. Armitage accept our tribute to his attainments, and our sincere best wishes upon his birthday, best wishes which we know are echoed by all.

Self Interest To Take Diabetes Test

It is hoped to complete the diabetes survey in Newmarket within the next two weeks. Towards that end, a strenuous effort is being undertaken to reach all citizens who have not yet had their tests. Dr. Kenny and the technicians are making house-to-house calls where it is difficult or impossible for the residents to come to the clinic.

Unfortunately, there are still many who, despite every assurance that the results of the tests will remain confidential, refuse to take them. In so doing, they are risking their health. The figures on the survey show that in Newmarket, there has been an estimated incidence of diabetes of four to five in every thousand. That means that in the remaining 600 or so yet to be tested, there is likely to be found at least two, possibly three cases of diabetes. Self interest indicates that every effort be made to complete the tests.

An obstacle to completing the survey has been the fear of some citizens that in some way or the other, the survey can only mean bad news for them. Others who have been requested to come in for a recheck have shown the same distrust. This attitude is particularly distressing when it is remembered that it may stand in the way of a full, healthy life.

If diabetes is recognized early enough and given the simple attention the disease requires if it is to be checked, a patient can continue to live a full and active life. If diabetes is unchecked, it means the breakdown of health and an early death.

It is in everyone's interest to take the test, and if called back for a recheck, to take it as quickly as possible. The earlier the recognition of the disease, the easier the treatment for the patient.

Editorial Paragraphs

Mr. John Fisher, C.B.C.'s roving reporter, spoke Sunday of Canada's indifference to preserving historical sites and relics. It might better be said that he denounced this indifference. He found Champlain's water colors and compass in the United States, the Blue Nose's bell in Edmonton, historic Fort McLeod in Alberta completely disappeared. Newmarket listeners found a similarity between his comments and those made in these columns recently on the same theme, indeed, there was a couple of calls with the additional information that the chair of David Wilson, founder of the Children of Peace at Sharon, was in the United States.

Somewhat on the same subject, a correspondent suggests that if new streets are opened up in Newmarket, the names of Beaman, Roe and Beswick might be remembered by so naming them.

Warden Clive Sinclair has opened an altogether new line of thought on annexation. Why not, he suggests, have the county amalgamated Toronto? He cites several instances where this procedure has been carried out in the United States. Mayor McCallum opposes the suggestion.

The installation of fire escapes in the town hall is a wise move. Although the present fireguards have been approved by authorities, the placing of fire escapes should encourage greater public confidence in the building's safety. The more exits the better when fire, with ensuing panic, breaks out.

The election speeches of Mr. Winston Churchill and Mr. Clement Attlee were broadcast in Canada on Sunday and for many listeners, it was a welcome opportunity to hear again that Churchillian oratory which roused a nation to defy a seemingly irresistible foe and roused a democratic world to unity against aggression. The voice was tired, as well it might be after the rigors of an election campaign, but the rolling periods were still as spell-binding and the choice of phrase still as fine as during the critical days when he personified a defiant Britain. By contrast, Mr. Attlee was colorless.

Office Cat reports Catnips By Ginger

One day last week, darkness settled over the outside office. Everyone looked up to see if a large storm cloud were passing over. But it wasn't a cloud at all. It was the massive frame of "Corky", the human polar bear, the whole 300 and some pounds of him at once, standing in the doorway. The cry of the bull polar bear echoed clear out into the composing room. Printers' ears pricked up and linotypists' eyebrows lifted.

Whenever human polar bears come to town, or cross country cyclists, inventors and hitchhikers-around-the-world, they naturally visit the office of the local press. Naturally, we are always prepared for something like this but when there is over 300 pounds and nearly 6 feet of it we are taken aback somewhat.

I think Corky said he weighs 333 with trilled r's.

Corky, the human polar bear, has a travelling act in which he himself is the star, the sole actor, production manager, agent and publicity manager. In brief, he gets into a portable swimming tank containing cold water, right outside in the cold and he swims. Maybe he does more than that but we think he's crazy if he stops right there. Brr!

What a way to make a living, we thought. "Oh well, its a living," said Corky, as if reading our thoughts. "And do you eat raw fish?" we asked.

"Whale blubber," he said. "Frozen?" "Yes." "Thought so."

He was accompanied by a young man of average stature who did not look at all like a polar bear. We assumed he was Corky, the human polar bear, junior. "I don't take after him."

by "Back Concession" The Top Six Inches

Are the cards stacked against the farmer? If so, who is at fault? There are two schools of thought today. The farmer is demanding that the second part of an agreement made in wartime be complied with. The government is not too willing to carry out that agreement.

The public, by asking the question: "Why should inefficient farmers be kept in business by public funds?" are backing up the government. The consumer has a good case. Public funds are made up from taxation. The consumer has to pay taxes to boost the farmers' prices and pay higher food costs. The consumer is paying two wages.

Mr. Bromfield, in an address to the crop improvement association, said that 60 percent of the farmers were inefficient. Mr. Gardiner and Mr. Watson of the livestock branch came out with the same thought that the farmer is not doing a good job. Those two men and the public were loud with praise for the farmer to win the war with food.

In 1938, the government passed an order that in event of war, war contracts would be let at cost plus five percent. There was not one contract taken at that price. For one year our war effort was held up while our industry staged a sit down strike. At this time the farmer made a mistake. They should not have accepted the government control on farm prices.

Industry held out and got plenty. Did industry consider the taxpayer's dollar?

We are told that serviceable equipment was torn out and replaced and charged to production costs, that men stood around doing nothing, running up man-hours. All this extra cost was paid by taxes. The public enjoyed high wages and lower than world prices on food. The public soon forgets we are asking people to remember all the facts.

Mr. Gardiner thinks that with efficient management, hogs can be produced at $32 per cwt. seaboard, or around $23 per cwt. at the packing plant. The Ontario department of agriculture, keeping costs of producing pork on 55 farms in Ontario, found 18 farms with a low cost, 18 medium cost, 19 with a high production cost, with an average cost of $42.90 per hog.

On the Toronto market Jan. 26, Grade A hog, weight 135 lbs. and grade B1 hog, weight 154 lbs., brought returns to the producer of $30.83 and $40.41 each. Pork prices were held down in wartime. Now our floor price is not the cost of production.

Mr. Gardiner says there is to be permanent farm price supports. Are our prices to be held down at the top and less than cost for a floor price? Mr. Gardiner says the farmer must have more co-operative organizations. This is real advice to the farmer. Co-operation is a system of doing business which, if properly applied, permits no injustice nor exploitation. Now the public is becoming afraid that the farmer may use the same tactics that labor and industry use to gain their point. The farmers' cards are on the table: $38 per cwt. seaboard for bacon instead of $32.50; the egg price 42c per dozen instead of 38c per dozen.

If the farmer does not get his share of the cake, it will not be for lack of asking. It is now up to the government to decide.

At the Ontario federation convention, there was no mention of a farm strike from the floor or in the lobby. There was an interesting discussion in the lobby on political action by the farmers. With our standing organizations, it was thought the farmer could make a better showing than the last attempt at politics. We farmers have the united co-operatives that came out of the farmers' collective effort at that time. The united co-operatives backed the federation to the extent of $5,000 last year. Cheerio.

AND A LONG WAY FROM SHORE

The state is the servant, not the master, of the people; the state is their guarantee against infringement on their rights, their agent in international and national issues; it is not the function of the state to assume the direction of those activities which rest on individual choice.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

Our New Canadians

This is one of a series of biographies of New Canadians who have located in the Newmarket district. Fictitious names are used because some of them still have relatives in Europe and fear they will suffer retaliatory measures. Others wish to keep their whereabouts unknown to Communist authorities in their native land.

The subjects of these biographies represent a cross-section of New Canadians. They are printed here so that readers may know their new neighbors better, and in their stories, find a new appreciation of Canada.

Henry is a Polish national who farms in partnership with a fellow Pole. He has been in Canada since August, 1948. He is not a displaced person in the usual sense of the word. He came to Canada by means of an immigration scheme sponsored by the C.N.R. He was a self-sufficient immigrant who, under the terms of his contract, was obliged to make a deposit of $2,000, and contract to purchase a farm in return for transportation advantages.

This is Henry's personal history: He was born in a town in Poland of about the same size as Newmarket, and like Newmarket, situated in the centre of an agricultural area. He attended an agricultural technical school, specializing in animal husbandry. He took his year and half compulsory military training with the Polish Air Force and had the rank of flying officer.

He remembers a period of warfare and bloodshed as a boy when after the first great war, the Poles and White Russians fought the Bolsheviks on the border of Eastern Poland.

Called up in 1939

He was called to service with the Polish Air Force a few days before the German invasion which signalled the outbreak of the second great war. He fought the Germans until the Polish Air Force was destroyed. With others of the air force, he went to the Roumanian border where the French were to re-arm them. Something went wrong and he was interned in Roumania.

He escaped shortly afterwards, going to France where he fought until the Dunkirk retreat. He escaped the Germans by going through Spain, then to Africa, and was brought from there to England by the British. He fought with the Poles in the R.A.F., taking part in the invasion of Europe and later serving in the occupation forces. He was demobilized in 1948. He was given his choice of returning to Poland, remaining in the United Kingdom or immigrating to another country. He chose to come to Canada because: Poland was in communist hands and he abhorred communism; he didn't want to remain in England, although pressed to because of his agricultural background, because of the regimentation imposed by the government. He chose to come to Canada because of the size of the country, its potentialities, and its opportunities.

Buys Farm

Henry purchased his farm in this area shortly after coming to Canada in partnership with another Pole. Unfortunately, the partnership is being dissolved. Henry must leave the farm. He is taking a job as a common laborer to build up his capital and plans, within a year, to buy another farm on his own. Henry is in his early 40's and married. His wife was a school teacher.

He plans to become a Canadian citizen as soon as possible. This is what he says of his adopted country: "Canada is big and its resources make it potentially rich. There is a freedom here which does not exist in Europe. A man can, if he is willing to work, make a secure home for himself and his children here. There is opportunity and encouragement which does not exist in Europe."

Henry is an expert in animal husbandry. Before the war, he supervised a large Polish farm. He is not afraid to turn his hand to commonest task. He expects no favors. He is well educated, speaks three languages. He wants to become a part of the community, and to contribute to the community. He came to Canada because he wanted the freedom to live and work as a man, as a citizen, and not as a regimented subject of the state.

An Aurora Opinion

By
RAY WILLIAMS

Aurora Editor

Several Aurora motorists were digging their cars from the drifts of snow and slush that had them held to the curb of Yonge St. in front of the post office. The group worked almost in unison and from a distance looked like members of a well drilled precision squad.

Finally, when they seemed to be making favorable headway and were almost ready to put their cars in gear and plow through the little snow that was left about them, down Yonge St. came the large yellow snow plow of the department of highways. The plow roared through and left a bank of snow impassable for any car.

The air was blue. Men, some with patience and some like patients, tore from their cars, shovels in hand and began anew to free their cars from the grip of nature. Meanwhile on the opposite side of the street stood a group of smiling citizens.

Aurora Snow Removal

But, out of it all, Aurora fashioned a much better snow removal job than most of the towns in the district. Days after the snow had cleared, some surrounding communities looked bogged down and many of them were.

Most of the Aurora sidewalks were plowed as soon as possible and few of them were not passable. Even the sidewalks were in good shape, and while we went around the town steadily during the two days that the storm hit, we never met a walk in bad shape.

The local motorists were just getting back to normal after recovering from the storm when they were tied up for the second time in a week. The mercury took a cruel dive Sunday and when it stopped, the temperature was something like 22 below. Anti-freeze pals, that's the stuff! Cars were frozen and stalled all over town. Motorists pushed and shoved each other in an effort to have all the cars going. But some of them were immovable and were left on the road sides to thaw themselves under the graces of old Sol.

We tried to muster the nerve to go up Yonge St. early Monday morning and see just how the townfolk would stand the cold weather. Aw, but it was cold. We stuck our head out the door. Briefly. Then, we crawled back into our dugout, huddled beside the heat and waited for the sun to warm the air.

Women's Farm Federation News

Byrne Hope Saunders, noted editor, wrote recently: "When the price of eggs tumbled women were delighted. Everytime I go shopping I hear them gloating in front of the egg counter, 'Isn't it wonderful?' But the lower price of eggs, even at floor price, is a symptom of a serious sickness in our economy."

There is more in Mrs. Saunders "Dollars, Pounds and Women" in Saturday Night. Read it for yourselves, for it is worth the effort.

The American government bought potatoes from their farmers for a high price and sold them back to the farmer for one cent a cwt. and Florida was shipping in potatoes from Canada.

The farming farmer is the only person really using what thinking capacity is given us to use. The rumor has been started that an up-to-date distributing market is to be built in Thornhill where the fire cleared away so many old buildings. Newmarket could have a bigger and better market and would bring more business to the town if we had a market committee made of active farmers, farmers who get their living from the income from the farm.

Let's start using our own brains. —A.B.

Interest Aroused By Essay Contest

The essay contest on Canadian citizenship in Newmarket has caught the enthusiasm of Newmarket students. Sponsored by the Newmarket branch of the Canadian Legion, it is open to all elementary and secondary schools in town. Prizes are offered to both groups and the winning essays will compete in a provincial contest. Two student winners of the provincial contest will be taken on a tour of Ottawa.

The essay contest on "My Idea of Canadian Citizenship" is in keeping with education week, March 5 to 12. Coinciding with the contest is a series of interviews with new Canadians who have settled in the Newmarket district appearing regularly in the Era and Express. This week, the story of Henry, who came to Canada from Poland, is featured on Page 5.

The local branch offers prizes of $10, $5 and $3 for the top three public school entries and the same amounts for the top three secondary school entries. Pupils from the public schools, high school, Pickering College and St. John's may take part in the contest.

It was said last week that T. M. Ewing was one of the judges of the contest. Mr. Ewing is chairman of the contest sponsored by the Legion. Judges who will review the essays are Rev. Jas. T. Rhodes, rector of St.

OTTAWA LETTER

by

Jack Smith, M.P.
North York

The second session of the 21st parliament was officially opened last Thursday, and after the opening formalities which lasted through the weekend, got down to business this week.

A familiar face, that of Toronto's Tommy Church, is missing this session, and glowing and sincere tributes were paid the late member by Prime Minister St. Laurent and leaders of all parties. Tommy Church died two weeks ago after a long career of public life dating back to 1897, and a membership in the house since 1935. The name of Tommy Church was synonymous with that of Toronto and he was known throughout Canada as a man of deep convictions, a man who as someone here remarked "had more friends than any man in Canada". A man who died with a name like that certainly didn't die "poor". On frequent trips from Toronto to Ottawa, and here in the house, I got to know Mr. Church quite well and I, like thousands of others throughout Canada, feel I have lost a fine friend.

Cabinet Changes

Changes on the front government benches removed the familiar face of Hon. Colin Gibson from Hamilton who is now an Ontario Supreme Court judge. The new cabinet minister is Hon. Walter Harris, Grey Bruce, who is minister of citizenship and immigration. Mr. Harris, a Markdale, Ont., lawyer, has been a member here since 1940 and served overseas in the war for more than four years. His wife is a daughter of the late J. J. Morrison whose name is well known throughout Ontario as one of the leading figures in founding the U.F.O. movement back in 1919.

There is general approval of the establishment of a new department of immigration and citizenship, as it is felt immigration is one of our most important problems in the building of a greater Canada.

A total of 382,451 immigrants had entered Canada by the end of 1949 since the cessation of hostilities in Europe in 1945.

This figure is made up of 160,848 from the United Kingdom, 38,828 from the United States, 45,720 from Northern European races and 117,055 from other races. Of this total 92,533 were displaced persons and many of these joined relatives residing in Canada and 1,000 were orphans who have been placed in homes in all parts of the country.

The speech from the throne didn't provide any sensations and

Hawks, Regents Each Win One

After 120 minutes of thrill-packed hockey, Aurora Hawks and Brampton Regents are tied at one game apiece in their best of five junior group final series, each team having taken a win on the other's ice. These two crack teen-age teams meet tonight in Aurora for the third game of the series and this is regarded as "the crucial" match of the series by the fans.

The next game is carded for Brampton on Saturday night but no announcement has been made concerning the fifth and rubber match if one is necessary, although it is thought it will come to Aurora. The series is as fast and feverish as the one staged last year with Weston and one of the largest crowds ever to see a game in Aurora is expected to be on hand for tonight's game.

Catching the Hawks off balance, Brampton held command of the first game for over three-quarters of the way, the Aurora lads staging a rousing finish in the last period and just failing to get the equalizer. It was a 4-3 win for the Regents who were better than a one-goal margin on the night's play. To indicate that the Hawks were not themselves is the fact that you could not single out one for a three-star award.

Saturday night's game at Brampton saw the teams in reverse as the Attridge-Mitchell clan held sway most of the way except for some disastrous penalties. The Hawks took the offensive, just about blew the duke entirely in the second stanza, but came from behind to score three straight markers for a brilliant 8-6 verdict. The margin just about indicates the difference on the night between the two teams.

The series has been marred so far with indifferent and uncertain refereeing and it is to be hoped that second-guessing will not decide the issue. In the opener, player Bob Hillson of the Brampton team after being given a minor penalty, attacked referee Randy Anderson from behind with a sturdy cross-check, sending him to the ice and following up with some pushing around and choice language to get a match misconduct. Despite these actions, Hillson was in the Brampton line-up for Saturday night. Both Aurora and Brampton supporters are demanding better officiating.

NAVY VETS SURPRISED SUTTON GREENSHIRTS MONDAY
 Navy Vets surprised Sutton Greenshirts Monday at Keswick and licked the group leaders 7-6. The Sailors are after a play-off berth, showing an improved line-up Monday and would like nothing better than to sink the Spits here Thursday when they drop anchor. All adds up to plenty of fireworks tonight.

MIDLAND WINS O.M.H.A. ROUND ON 4-2 GAME

Three hundred and fifty fans turned out at the arena Friday to see our bantams make their move to reach the semi-finals in the O.M.H.A. playdowns. They went home convinced ours was the better team but that our Optimists lacked the necessary polish to dump the puck in the opposition net. Midland scored a 4-2 win via two last-period tallies and took the round by a 6-4 win margin. The first game up north was a two all draw. The loss, the second this season, suffered by Frank Hollingsworth's small fry, eliminated them from further play-off action.

Midland shot ahead with two first-period tallies and furthered their cause when Ron. Lowes dumped in a third after five seconds of the third period. Bill Mair at the six-minute mark and Bob Forhan from Merlyn Bales ten seconds later put the Optimists right back in the hunt. For the next ten minutes the locals put on the pressure, skidded the puck by and around the Midland cage but couldn't get the equalizer. Then Lowes got a break-away to give Midland a 4-2 edge in the game and that's how it ended.

All our wee chappies played well with a special hello to Billy Mair and Delwyn Creed. The former went about his chores in a manner that would make his big brother, "Scotty," up with Marlboros, step to retain the family honors. Delwyn Creed didn't cut any ice on the score sheet but did out at his centre-ice post.

Newmarket: g. Murray Young; d. Grant Morton, Bob Forhan; c. Delwyn Creed; w. George Davis, Glen Keffler; alts. Merlyn Bales, Laurie VanZant, Bob Broadbent, Chas. McGuire, Bob Atwell, Raymond Gurr, Bill Mair, Ken. Bell, Bruce Fines.

7 VICTORIES AS MOUNTIES TAKE 'DORF 5-4

Quiet week with the Lake Simcoe League teams. A combination of storms and mild weather held their games to a single encounter, a 5-4 win by Mount Albert over Vandroff. The win increased the Mounties' streak to seven games and further solidified their hold on first place in the group, a spot they've enjoyed all winter long.

Ross Draper bulletted a pair of shots into the Vandroff cage to spark the Mount men to their seventh triumph. On the other side Clem. Ellis, Joe Lundy, Howard Timbers and Dave Richardson shared the Vandroff scoring.

Thursday and Friday of this week will be a crucial one with the teams as they endeavor to set up their play-off position. Miss Dane stressed that women were not only ready and able to accept greater responsibilities in municipal, national and international affairs; but that men were beginning to recognize this and to welcome their contributions.

Thirteen new members were initiated and welcomed into the Newmarket club. Miss Dane conducted the initiation service assisted by Miss Whitfield. A sing-song featuring the songs of many nations was led by Miss Norine Ayers with Miss Florence Goldsmith at the piano. Old favorites as well as rounds came in for their share of attention and brought a pleasant evening to a close. A short business session was held following the program.

Fijians, Eskimos Share In Global Day of Prayer

The World Day of Prayer service will be held in Newmarket tomorrow afternoon, 3 p.m., at the Christian Baptist church. The speaker will be Mrs. E. A. Petersen and women from the churches in town will participate in the service.

The service is sponsored by the Women's Inter-Council of Canada and the major portions of the service were prepared by Miss Michi Kawai, Japan. Similar services will be held around the world on this first Friday in Lent. All women of the district are invited to attend the service regardless of whether they are affiliated with a missionary group. The offering will go to the Inter-Council for distribution among the foreign and home missions.

Miss Kawai writes in her call to prayer. "At prayer today the World Christian Community is one and indivisible. It knows neither caste nor privilege, neither riches nor poverty, neither creed nor color. Some will pray who cannot read; some will pray who are not fed; some will pray shivering in thin rags, and some will pray from seats of comfort. All will pray for a better world for their children; for relief from life-destroying wars; for inner faith that will not falter; and for the coming of the Kingdom of God."

"The unbroken chain of prayer begins as the sun rises among the Fijian Christians, then passes from island to island, from continent to continent, until at the close of the day the prayers of fur-clad Eskimos are borne to the ever-open ears of the Eternal. The voice of prayer is never silent, nor does the strain of praise away."

SHOPPING WITH BETTY

Something For Informal Notes

By BETTY BRAMMER

"Through a Moongate" handi-notes by Rust Craft are very charming for informal notes, invitations or thank yous. They may be purchased in Newmarket. There are 12 notes in a box and the original water color depicts a typical view—through a moon-gate. Inscribed on the back of each is "Many Chinese gardens have high pastel tinted walls with moon-shaped openings or moon-gates."

A pretty hat does wonders for any woman. A sailor to wear well back on the head, in a deep dusty pink Milan straw with navy taffeta ribbon down the back is extremely youthful. Another hat seen in a Newmarket shop was also in Milan straw. This was navy, off the face style, trimmed with lily of the valley

YOUNG HOPEFULS BY DOROTHY MUIR BOWMAN

Gary Learned In Sickbed

Gary, 12 years old, during a lengthy convalescent period, discovered he had the power to entertain himself—and others.

Gary had always been a very active lad so confinement to his bed when he felt like running and playing with his friends was a very difficult assignment. It was not only difficult for Gary, but it was difficult for his family and everyone who came to visit him. He was so restless with his own inactivity that he had everyone else practically worn out waiting on him, running errands for him and trying to amuse him.

Finally, it was decided that Gary was to be alone with his home-work. After it was finished, he could have visitors. After all, a household can stand a constant state of disruption for just so long before it becomes a complete madhouse.

At first Gary rushed through his homework and his mistakes were numerous. Then he had to be penalized for his carelessness. Besides correcting his errors, he had to copy the corrected paper. This took longer than doing the work right in the first place so he started to take more time in the beginning. Finally, he began taking pride in his written work—besides no spelling mistakes, his penmanship improved.

Gary's writing was so improved after he learned to slow down and relax that he began to enjoy the process. Then he began to sketch things in his room. It was encouraging to have his sketches recognized by visitors. Then he began making cartoons and used his visitors for his caricatures. This greatly amused everyone and soon his little friends were not chasing each other all over the house running errands, but were quietly occupied posing for Gary and trying to make pictures, too. Comic strips provide fair models and trying to duplicate them requires some concentrated effort.

Gary has so much more time to practice his sketches that he has become quite the authority in appraising all sketches. As so frequently happens, with the busy lives of children, filled with programs planned for them and entertainments that give them only audience experience, they haven't time to learn how to amuse themselves and have no inclinations to do so.

Free quiet time should be a part of everyone's daily program. Those who appreciate and enjoy that part of their busy schedule seem to lead the happiest and best adjusted lives.

TRINITY W.A., MARCH 2

The Woman's Association of the Newmarket Trinity United church will meet in the Sunday school room on Thursday, March 2, at 2:45 p.m. Mrs. L. Hicks will be the soloist and Miss Annie King, the guest speaker. Miss King will speak on eastern Ontario which she visited last year with particular reference to the country made famous in Ralph Connor's novels.

A tip from Betty: Give your face a daily creaming. Overheated rooms, wind and cold rob your skin of natural oil. The cream will help keep your skin soft and smooth.

ATTENDANCE OFFICER SPEAKS

Must Sell Education To Parents

A meeting of the Federation of Women Teachers' Associations of Ontario, York 1, was held at the King George hotel on Thursday, Feb. 16. Mrs. James Maw, Newmarket, presided. Guests of the evening were the executive members of the Newmarket Home and School Association.

Over 50 were present to hear the guest speaker, Miss Bertha Reynolds, tell of her work. Miss Reynolds is the co-ordinator of the child guidance clinic and chief attendance officer for Toronto. She was principal of the Hester Howe school where the children of many nationalities learn Canadian ways and customs as well as receive their formal education. Miss Reynolds originated classes for the parents of these children and in these classes, which since then have received much province-wide recognition, the parents were taught English and other school subjects. Hobby groups were held for them and every effort was made by Miss Reynolds to help them feel that Canada was their real home.

Miss Reynolds said that the Toronto child guidance clinic is composed of three panels, the psychiatric services, the remedial reading and academic adjustment department and the general office wherein the attendance officer is located. Last year 5,185 children visited the child guidance clinic in Toronto for assistance. The clinic acts as a complement to the teachers and principals who refer children to the clinic when they have exhausted every resource to help the child adjust himself. Miss Reynolds said that the school had become a child welfare agency and was no longer concerned only with the child's academic learning, but combined with it an interest in his social, mental, emotional and cultural development.

"Attendance officers must work to sell education to parents whose children are chronic absentees," said Miss Reynolds. "They can not simply compel attendance, but must make education seem desirable. Poor attendance, like bad behavior, is a disaster signal given by the child to show that something is very wrong. There is always a cause underlying these problems and it is the child's way of asking for help."

Miss Reynolds, who is a very witty and gifted speaker, added much interest to her informative talk by the addition of many anecdotes of cases treated by the clinic. It was remarkable

The Common Round...

By Isabel Inglis Colville
THE COMMON COLD

While following the common round

I caught a common cold;
I'm wishing, with a wish profound
The namer of it could be found
And hear my tale unfold!

The telephone begins to ring,
I hasten to attend it;
I try my softened brain to bring
In line with some important thing
That comes a-sounding o'er it.

But there's a ringing in my head
That has no rhyme or reason,
For all that filters through to me
They might be saying A, B, C
Or voicing highest treason!

I try to settle to my work
When such an awful feeling
—A sudden tickling, pricking quirk,
My face assumes a silly smirk
As sneezes set me reeling.

The cats who lay in peaceful sleep
Spring up with ruffs upstanding,
They gaze in terror as I weep
And when I sneeze again, they leap
From chairs in a forced landing.

Before I seek uneasy sleep,
Hot lemonade I swallow,
Cough medicine at hand I keep
My vertebrae with shivers creep
—In misery I swallow.

Coherently I cannot write,
Be happenings what they may,
Perhaps next week I may indite
An offering that will bear the light
And so till then—good day!

THE HOMEMAKERS

Puddings and More Puddings

Winter appetites demand desserts that are hot and substantial. Now is the time for the homemaker to bring from her special book the best recipes for baked and steamed puddings that "mother used to make" and serve them to an appreciative family. She should also try a few that are new and different. The solid and often too heavy boiled, suet pudding has been superseded by lighter, fluffier types that are just as satisfying. Anyone of the following three will make a welcome addition to a winter meal.

CHERRY SWIRLS
2 Cups sifted all-purpose flour
1 Tsp. sugar

1/2 Cup sugar
Cinnamon
Drain cherries, spread over biscuit dough, sprinkle with cinnamon and roll up as for jelly roll. Cut into 1 1/2 inch slices. Place biscuit swirls in a greased baking dish, cut side down. To the cherry juice add enough water to make 1 1/2 cups. Heat, add sugar and pour over cherry swirls. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, 45 min. Serve hot. Yield: six servings.

ALMOND SPONGE

1/2 Tsp. baking powder
Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff but not dry. Gradually beat in 1/2 cup sugar. Beat egg yolks and gradually beat in the remaining 1/2 cup sugar and flavorings. Fold half the stiffly beaten egg whites into the beaten egg yolks, then add the flour which has been mixed and sifted with the baking powder, stirring lightly. Fold in the remaining egg whites. Turn into a lightly greased 8"x8" cake pan. Set in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for 40 minutes. Serve with the following sauce. Yield: six to eight servings.

FRUIT SAUCE
1 Tbsp. cornstarch

BUSY POST-NUPTIAL ROUND FOR NEWMARKET BRIDE

Mrs. John N. Maycock, Brantford, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. E. R. Boudreau, Newmarket, has been the guest of honor at a number of post-nuptial showers during the past few weeks.

The school children of the Alexander and Central schools, Brantford, made a presentation as did the Brantford Home and School Association. Miss Ruth Heckendorf, Brantford, entertained for Mrs. Maycock at a kitchen shower and a linen shower was held on Friday evening in Hamilton for the honoree.

The staff teachers of the Alexander and Central schools, Brantford, had a dinner and presentation for the young couple and another presentation was made to them by the Silver Art Club, Brantford.

Mrs. Maycock was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. George Griffith, Toronto, at which about 30 friends were gathered.

'PARCEL POST' SALE UNIQUE FEATURE AT TRINITY TEA

A very enjoyable afternoon tea was held at Trinity United church, Newmarket, on Friday afternoon under the auspices of the Women's Association. Guests were greeted at the door by the president, Mrs. J. E. Morris.

A parcel post sale was a unique addition to the tea and proved successful as did the sale of home baking. About 145 parcels were sold and caused much interest among the many who attended as each parcel contained some useful item. Valentine decorations at the tea tables and around the room were very lovely.

Those responsible for the success of the affair were the groups convened by the following ladies: kitchen, Mrs. R. L. Pritchard; parcel post and bake table, Mrs. Norman Hopper and Mrs. H. A. Jackson; tea room, Mrs. C. S. Gilbert.

IT'S A Woman's World

By CAROLINE ION

The week of February 18 to 25 is called "Brotherhood Week" in Canada. It is being sponsored by the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews and warrants the attention and consideration of every member of our population. Particularly, it should concern the women of our nation.

During the most formative years of a child's life, the first six when the pattern of future behavior and thinking is being established and the character traits firmly fixed, it is the mother who exerts the most influence. She is with the child almost constantly. Through the daily example of her reactions to situations, the unconscious training of the child progresses. If the path trod by the mother is narrow; if it is walked in with distrust of all that is different; with fear of the new and untried; with prejudice of those of a different racial origin—then the child will become but another spoke in the wheel of intolerance which crushes the ideal of brotherhood in the world.

Make Mockery of Ideals
Generally speaking and when considered objectively, we insist that all are entitled to equal rights and freedoms, and yet in our personal lives we make a mockery many times of these high ideals. By the tone of our voice or the choice of our words we show our children that certain people are not quite as good as our own family. Snobbery, whether it is intellectual or financial, is but another form of intolerance.

Remember the "Jim Crow" incident in the Ontario town of Dresden last year? In that small town reside some of the descendants of the southern slaves who during the American Civil War found sanctuary in Canada and it was these people who were refused service in restaurants because of their color. Other discriminations were also carried out against them. It is ironic that the negro boys of Dresden were acceptable when it came to service in the army during the last war, but these men are now not able to eat in the same restaurant with their fellow Dresden citizens who have white skin.

How About Ourselves?
Before we condemn the residents of Dresden for this unforgivable behavior we should consider how we would have behaved in a like situation. Would we have eaten side-by-side with our negro brethren? We would like to believe that all of us in Newmarket could truthfully answer yes, but think again of the reactions to the discovery that a person who is trying to buy the summer property next to ours is Jewish. Do we remember our high sounding phrases of international brotherhood? We wonder that there is even an interval of peace between world wars. We do not need to cite cases of intolerance among different racial groups as the only ones which exist in Canada. The same animosity can be found between the various branches of the Christian faith. There is often an unwillingness to even allow the other person his right to worship as he sees fit and certainly no great effort is made at times to see his point of view. In Quebec, through the prosecution of the Jehovah Witness groups, there has been another example of this lack of understanding. It has no place in a new country which is

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE
MONTREAL — Most of us have to watch our food budgets closely and I'm most impressed with tea's unrivalled day in, day out economy. A pound of tea produces at least 200 cups of full-flavored beverage! That means a family of four can have tea every meal for two weeks from one pound. In addition, tea tastes better with milk than with cream—milk costs much less! So, besides bringing you low cost refreshment and pleasure at home, tea's outstanding economy makes it popular with organizations which raise funds for their work.

I Feel Like a "flash-flash" gossip columnist today! Surrounded by a few hundred Frigidite dealers and salesmen, I've just attended a glittering preview of the new 1960 model FRIGIDAIRS REFRIGERATORS. And gals, are they something! The big news is that there's a Cold-Wall model in the line after an absence of several years and that means uncovered foods don't dry out. All models are superbly styled by Raymond Leovy and the metal trim of the Cold-Wall model is a lustrous Ice-Blue color that's really something to see! Storage space has been increased. I saw models with adjustable aluminum shelves and new twin fruit and vegetable hydrators that are extra deep! But I just haven't space to tell you of all the wonderful new features. See them at your Frigidite dealer's soon!

Let's Have A Party, Mam!
When that's the cry, how much more fun for the young fry to help with the celebrations. Simple but delicious JELL-O JELLY POWDER desserts are the answer, and their bright and appealing colours make gay parties more festive. Try this delicious treat made with any one of Jell-O's seven tempting "Jockey" flavors. It's as economical as it is good to eat!
CRESTED JELL-O WHIPS
1 package Jell-O (any flavor)
2 cups hot water
Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Pour 2 tablespoons Jell-O mixture into each of 6 individual moulds. Chill until firm. Chill remaining Jell-O. When slightly thickened, place in bowl of cracked ice; beat with rotary beater until fluffy and thick. Add whipped cream. Pour over firm Jell-O. Chill. Unmould. Garnish with fruits—6 servings.
Double Action Means Double Economy
Yes, I find that the double action of CALUMET BAKING POWDER actually means double economy. For not only do I use less, but the two separate leavening actions of Calumet save time and money that might have been wasted on baking failures. The first leavening action takes place in the mixing bowl, the second in the oven. Both are timed and balanced to give beautifully light, fine grained cakes, mouth-watering muffins, tender and delicious tea biscuits. I know you'll be more than pleased with Calumet's efficiency in making a delicate, fluffy batter that will bake into a superb treat.

Something "Good To Eat" Try this whirly, swirly jelly roll made with SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR—the cake flour that's sifted and re-sifted until 27 times as fine as ordinary flour. You can't help but have greater baking success with Swans Down.
MINKIN JELLY ROLL
1/2 cup sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
1/2 teaspoon Calumet Baking Powder
Dash of salt
2 eggs (at room temperature)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 to 1 cup tart red jelly
Sift flour once; measure. Combine baking powder, salt, eggs in bowl. Beat with rotary egg beater, adding sugar gradually until thick and light colored. Gradually fold in flour, then vanilla. Turn into 15 x 10-inch pan which has been lined with paper, then greased. Bake in hot oven (400 deg.) 20 minutes. Turn out on cloth or towel, dusted with powdered sugar. Quickly remove paper; cut off crisp edges of cake. Cut lengthwise, then crosswise twice, to make 8 pieces of equal size. Spread each with jelly and roll into individual jelly rolls. Cool on cake rack. Each roll may be cut in slices, for daintier servings.

When the sale of Margarine in Canada became legal 12 months ago, MARGENE was the first brand to appear on the market.
At that time Margarine had been banned from Canada for 25 years. There was no way of knowing what flavour and what texture would best appeal to the Canadian palate.
In the intervening 12 months, Canada Packers has carried on week-to-week tests to find out exactly the flavour Canadians wish.
We feel we have it in the NEW MARGENE—the flavour and the texture Canadians like.

Whitchurch Approves Gormley Cemetery After Long Delay

Although the board of health for the township of Whitchurch gave its approval for a new cemetery to be established in new Gormley near the United Missionary church away back in 1944, only at its last meeting did the municipal council lift its opposition and give final approval.

Councillor Fred Timbers said this matter had been hanging around for five years and council may as well approve, since it appears to have no right to offer further opposition.

Deputy-Reeve McLaughlin said the matter might be referred back to the board of health, but Reeve Logan opposed the idea on the ground that the matter had been dealt with there, and having once rendered a decision the board of health would not likely back down now.

The Gormley cemetery comprises two acres of ground and had been opposed by a resident who considered he lived too close to the proposed grounds. However, with board of health ruling there appeared no reason for opposition on a health basis, and the "green light" was given with the approval of the whole council.

Councillor Sid Legge warned council to be careful when a motion to agree with East Gwillimbury to share in cost of opening townline north between these two townships at lots seven and eight was submitted. "We'd better look over the situation and decide how much money may be involved. It might be more than we would approve," concluded Mr. Legge, when the motion was withdrawn and council agreed on suggestion of the reeve to look over the situation.

"Better be prompt in looking because this could be a spring job," warned Deputy-Reeve McLaughlin.

The clerk was instructed to confer with the solicitor respecting the crossing on the fourth concession where railway crosses lots five and six. The C.N.R. says it has no jurisdiction where trees obstruct the proper view, and the township likewise feels it is lacking jurisdiction. The trees are on the Ed Leary place and were said to constitute a hazard for motorists passing over this crossing.

Police Chief Mulholland asked and obtained agreement of council that the taxi license of Mr. Stundin be cancelled.

Councillor R. C. Baycroft moved that the relief account totaling $363 cash be approved, also $120.75 for T.B. care of patients. Motion approved.

A further resolution indicated a claim for road subsidy from the department of highways on 1949 expenditures of $4,884.92 and this amount of grant will be petitioned for.

CANADIAN PLOWMEN ABROAD
by ALEX McKINNEY Jr. ★ Director
ONTARIO PLOWMEN'S ASSOCIATION

Editor's note: This is the fourth of a series of weekly stories which Alex. McKinney, Jr., a director of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, is writing about the visit of Canada's champion plowmen to the British Isles, West Germany, Denmark and the Netherlands.

West Germany—When I wrote last week we were in Denmark. Now we have crossed over the border into Allied Occupied Germany. Leaving Copenhagen, the Danish capital, to enter Hamburg, once one of the most important seaports of the world and now the chief city of this part of Germany, is like stepping out of a tidy parlor into a kitchen after it has been struck by a cyclone.

But before I launch into an account of our two-day tour of post-war Germany I'd like to mention a few more points of interest about our stay in Denmark.

While the Danes have to put up with plenty of hardships, including dislocation of their export trade when the Nazis overran their country, they did not suffer as much as some other European countries. Today agricultural production in Denmark is only limited by the Danes' ability to grow and buy fodder for their livestock. From what I could learn, agriculture is pretty well back to the pre-war level.

There is still some war damage to be seen in Denmark. Perhaps one of the most amazing war souvenirs is a building in the heart of Copenhagen. It was the Gestapo headquarters during the occupation and one day a couple of U.S.A.F. light bombers swooped down within a few hundred feet of it and let go their bombs. So accurate was the pinpoint bombing that the bombs landed dead in the centre of the building. All the houses around remained intact while the exploding bombs wrecked the interior of the building. The walls still stand for all to see.

Co-operative Dairy
During our tour of Denmark we also managed to visit a co-operative dairy, two royal castles, Frederiksborg and the Elsinore of Hamlet, and a folk school which was one of 50 for which Denmark is famous. The most ancient point we visited was an old Viking temple which, we were told, was 200 years old when Columbus sailed to America.

But to get back to Germany. From the time we crossed the Danish-German border of Schleswig-Holstein (the last name should be familiar to a certain cattle breeders' association back home), we saw evidence of war damage on all sides. It increased as we approached Hamburg and in that city we saw what it means to a country to lose a war.

Hamburg, where we made our headquarters, is a weird mixture. It has been called the city of the living and the dead. It was once Europe's greatest port and the greatest shipbuilding centre in Germany. Here the Nazis built most of their submarine fleet and constructed great repair shops to service their merchant fleet.

As a result it was one of the main targets for the air forces. Today most of the city lies in rubble with more than 50 percent of the houses destroyed, the submarine works have been blasted and the shipbuilding plants are practically crippled. The thousand-plane air raids did so much damage that the people still haven't managed to dig out all of their dead from under the piles of debris. But life goes on in spite of the ruin and destruction.

Remarkable Recovery

In some respects the Germans have managed to make a remarkable recovery. With the exception of coffee and a few minor things there is no rationing. People do not seem to have any difficulty getting foodstuffs or gasoline, or anything for that matter as long as they have the marks to pay out. In Hamburg the stores are filled with goods and I was able to get films there that I couldn't get in England.

But prices are high and wages are low. The people have to choose between eating well or being well clothed, for they just haven't the money for both. If they have families they choose the food. Even in the best hotels we saw very few well dressed people.

There is considerable unemployment in the cities, a condition that is made worse by the fact that an estimated 12,000,000 refugees from Eastern Germany, mostly older men and women and children, have moved into Western Germany and more arrive every day.

On the farms we saw few machines. We did not see any milking machines. As you have probably guessed there is little need of labor-saving machines when human labor is so plentiful. They have three times as many hands on the farms here as we have at home.

Most of the cattle we saw on the farms here are Friesian. We were not too impressed with them but no doubt we did not see the best herds. But we did see some good hogs which are shorter and thicker than the Danish hogs and are marketed at heavier weight.

Saw Dairy Districts

Our guides were James Parlane, agricultural advisor to the military government, and Dr. Carl Redder of Esso. They drove us to North Germany to inspect the dairy districts which are about 80 miles south of Hamburg. We also saw thousands of acres of reforested land, mostly pine and spruce. They had all been hard-planted in light soil. Some of the trees were large enough that they were being cut. Dr. Redder told me much of this is privately owned and is being handled as a crop.

SUTTON GALS BEAT KESWICK IN OVERTIME

Last Monday night at Keswick, Keswick ladies' hockey team opened their season against Sutton's lady Greenshirts. A lot of males came along to scoff but they went home in a different frame of mind. The gals made sure the fans would come back for more by providing them with a ten-minute overtime session in their first game before the Lady Greenshirts earned a 5-4 win over Keswick. It was a scoreless first period but in the middle frame four each were scored. That's how it stayed until all but five seconds were left to play, then Ruth Dunn counted the winner for Sutton.

Keswick goals were two by Nancy Daley, singles by Kay Peters and Pat Donnell. Keswick: g., Evelyn Young; d., Betty York, Charlotte Werden; c., Kay Peters; w., Nancy Daley, Helen Sinclair; alts., Ruth Yorke, Margaret Russell, Jane Alder, Ruth Mary Peters, Pat Donnell, Grace Peters, Helen Porter, Lial Clarke, Lorraine Dolan.

Sutton: g., Myrtle Davie; d., Marg. McMillan, Marg. Kaiser; c., Mary Quinn; w., Ruth Dunn, Eileen Holborn; alts., Marie Lonergan, Dot. Lonergan, Nancy

BENEFIT GAME

Keswick Ladies and Sutton Ladies will play a benefit hockey game at Keswick Arena on Saturday evening. Proceeds of the game will go to Miss Dorothy Lonergan of the Sutton team who fractured her arm in a recent game. Game time at Keswick Saturday is 7 o'clock. Following the hockey game there will be skating. Door prizes and fun for all.

9-Man Markham Team Defeats Eclipse 16-5

Eclipse "Knights" went through a semblance of giving Markham "dollar men" a hockey game here Tuesday. Markham with only nine men fattened their scoring averages for 16 goals to Eclipse's 5. Coach Earl Robertson converted Mac Clelland into a winger, and Mac fired four goals and a pair of helpers. The other four-goal man was Ronnie Bell. Jack Watson and Keith Jewett hit the rigging for hat tricks. Jack and Geo. Rummy and Fred Scott scored singles. Mel Prideman was the Knights' best, two goals and two assists.

Lonergan, Jacqueline Lynas, Lilian Beattie, Ann Beattie, Barb. Big Canoe, Evelyn Hibbert, Betty Hill, Lorna Cronsberry.

On The Alleys

Vorcione in the Hoffman circuit continued their good work last week. For a second week in succession they took home a win. They bumped over Machine Shop 5-2, Stores doing a similar take over Sheet Metal. That leaves us with Sheet Metal out front with 63, Stores 60, Press Shop 53, Machine Shop 51, Vorcione 40. Morris Crowder was top pin spitter with 643 including a high single of 241. Keith Davis 611 (225) and Ivan Ruddock 587 (212).

Slick Chicks continue to set the pace with the Fridaynighters with 55 points, followed by Eager Beavers 51, Stinkers 47 and Hep Cats 39. Bessie Stickwood compiled a 175 for ladies' high single. Geo. McInnis topped the men's single marks with 247.

A 557 threesome (191-208-158) chalked up by Joyce Vandenberg was the top individual effort with the Thursday night ladies. Three other bowlers gained the 500 circle. Grace Osmond with 546 (192-160-194), Eva Whitfield 527 (151-141-235) and just in under the wire Frances McLeod with an even 500.

Harry Thoms with a tidy 731 headed the Davis Leather scorers. Thoms made his mark via three consistent games of 249, 265 and 217. Other fine efforts put forth were Barney Revell 652, Bernard McHale 623, Ned Tansley 621, Frank Bothwell 604 and Len. Burling 600. Smart gained a 4-3 win over Groves, Burling did likewise despite Captain Thoms' high total. League standing is Burling's 96, Thoms' 86, Groves' 56 and Smart's 42.

Caught up with a note that indicates an ex-Newmarketier is finding the bright lights agreeing with his bowling scores. That's Frank "Ace" Baillie. Frankie compiled a fine 830 triple in Bell Paper Co. League. Not bad, not bad.

Tommy Scott was the hot-shot

Better Refereeing Needed

The Hatfields and McCoys (We mean Aurora Hawks and Brampton Regents) will meet in the third game of the series at Aurora tonight. The game should be a dandy and the Hawks, because they looked like the team they really are on Saturday, are favored to take this one. Nobody as yet is predicting the series to end in four games so evenly are the clubs matched.

Odiferous officiating has taken place in both games. No one disputes that referees can have bad nights and make mistakes, but indifferent or below par refereeing can certainly ruin a game. It's the uncertainty of what will be called and what will be allowed that's affecting the players on both teams. Good or bad, the teams and management and the fans too have a right to insist upon consistency in interpretation of the rules. Neither Randy Anderson or Al. Roberts on Thursday, or Doug. Houston and Dave Brush on Saturday provided that.

Let's face the issue squarely. This quartet, while not newcomers to the game by any means, have done most of their stretch, except for Houston, in the T.H.L. and they work two or three nights a week there now. Handling these games can't but affect the referee's judgment and allow him to get in the habit of thinking he needn't be quick on the whistle, or that a bad decision can be by-passed by evening it up later.

The teams are paying the O.H.A. a cut at the gate, and paying the officials well. It's a far cry from the days when a series like this would merit such top referees as Ken. Holmeshaw, Albert McCaffrey, Bert Hedges, Ernie Worley, Pat Patterson, Bill Morrison, etc. We didn't always see eye to eye with those gents but at least we felt they earned their money and knew their business. A couple of top grade officials will be well worth any money spent. Let's do away with second-guessing.

If Bobby Hillson of Brampton is not debarrred from the game for the rest of the season then the O.H.A. and their officials are slipping badly. Hillson is a good player and it's only too bad he couldn't control his temper. No one wants to see the lad hindered in his hockey, but his actions in cross-checking the referee and roughing him up certainly shouldn't be tolerated. By this time perhaps something has been done. In the days when Billy Hewitt was on the job and the officials did their duty a player would at least have been temporarily suspended until the O.H.A. dealt with the matter. The incident happened on Thursday night, yet Hillson was in action on Saturday. The official was right in his interpretation of the rules, albeit it seemed a cheap penalty to impose, for fixing equipment on the ice, and stalling the game briefly. The day when a player can get away with roughhouse tactics is long since past.

The fans look for prompt action to cure rowdism. Baskett Bouncers: We hate to mention it but a record for high scoring in district basketball was set recently when St. Andrew's College Prep school seniors handed Aurora high first a 112-14 defeat, at the College. Frank Gregoire has no allies

Surprise Bradford As Spits Win 11-3

SPITS SCALP INDIANS
Newmarket Spitfires held a scalp party at the arena last Thursday. Victims were Aurora Indians, Spits 10, Aurora 3. For the most part, Indians had nothing but peaceful intentions. They lacked the old get-up and fight usually associated with a visit from Aurora and which they displayed in abundance the last time here.

Clippers Lose 9-3 To Low Flying Spits

Stan Smith took the Spits over to Stouffville for an exhibition contest with the Clippers Monday, and who got clipped? Yes, indeed, Newmarket 9, Stouffville 3. Big factor in the Spits win was their speed. Going at a mile a minute clip, Spits out-skated and out-scored the Clippers by a 3-1 margin in each period. Bill Mabbett was a ball of fire up front going for a couple of pretty goals, while the ex-Stouffville line of last year, Bill Johnston, Don Smith and Normie Legge, proved to their old supporters they are coming up in the world by hurrying hither and yon for five goals, two by Johnston, two by Smith and a single from the shooting iron of Norm. Legge.

Plans are underway to stage a return bout here next Tuesday. If the plan goes through, proceeds of the game will go to an injured players' fund. Watch for the announcement.

COAST FAIL TO SHOW

Aurora Indians were left in the lurch Tuesday evening by East Coast at the Aurora arena. Manager Harold Rogers of the Indians received a phone message at 7.50 p.m. saying the Coasters couldn't keep their appointment. A full report covering the incident is going forward to O.H.A. headquarters. There is little doubt that it will add another mark to the Indians' victory column.

Stan Smith's sharpshooting Spits lowered their sights with devastating effect, giving the Bradford clan a 11-3 defeat Saturday. The win powered the Spits victory run to seven and brought them up to within a point of front running Sutton and Bradford in the Trolley league. Bradford lacked rear-wall steadiness as both Joe Magan and Don Wilson missed the show. Stan Smith's clan worked without Harry Caradonna.

The Spits had the bit in their teeth from the drop of the biscuit. They piled in three goals in the first against one from Bradford. The second was a complete triumph for the Spits, flashing seven shots, unanswered, behind an embarrassed Ken Tupling. The final chapter went to Bradford, two goals to one as Bradford assayed a belated, but much too late, rally.

Spits' powerful attack was paced by Normie Legge with his hat trick performance and two assists. His line mates, Bill "Hot Shot" Johnston and Don Smith, chimed in with two goals "Swiftly" Todd, Myles McInnis, Stan Gibbons and Cliff Gunn were one-goal men. Bruce Collings, Chuck Nesbitt and Mike Kuhla poked the disc behind Fred Dillman, who rated one of the three stars by the way.

Checking was on the rugged side—14 sinners being turned over to the care of the penalty timer, with the hottest bit of shenanigans coming in the final five minutes of play, sending Bruce Collings, Stan Gibbons and "Swiftly" Todd off for five-minute sentences for fisticuffing, and Roy Collings for two.

FAVORED TWO WIN OPENERS IN TOWN LOOP

Town Merchants and Davis Leather were easy winners over Office Specialty and Hoffmans in town league semi-finals Monday. The Merchants bopped over the Cabinet Makers 6-2, Davis Leather stacked too much scoring power in the nightcap and put Hoffmans to sleep 7-2.

A four-goal scoring display in the final period gave the Town-ers their victory margin. Up to that stage the Specialty had the Town to a 2-1 lead. Then Ivan Gibson whopped in three goals. Harold Gwyn dunked the fourth Town counter of the session. Bob Smith with Gord Chase in a helper role broke the scoring ice in the first. "Murph" Jelley sank a rebound for the lone goal of the middle frame. Barney Bishop wound up for a couple of rink-long sallies that paid off for the Specialty tallies.

For one period in the nightcap Hoffmans looked as though they were getting ready to provide a major upset with Ivan Ruddock and Bob Elphinstone lifting shots into the Tannery cage. Harold Andrews meanwhile stood off all but one of the Tannery thrusts. Then the Tanners whamed home four goals in the middle chapter and added two more for good measure in the finale for their 7-2 winning effort.

Bruce Townsley was the Tanners ace shot-maker with four goals, Bohmer Groves picked up a goal and a pair of assists, Cec Andrews and Freddie Bray accounted for the other Tannery tallies.

Second game in the best two-of-three semi-final sets are scheduled for next Monday. Coaches Pete Neufeld of the Cabinetmakers and Harry Haines of the Pressmen says it will be different next Monday. Both teams must win or tuck away their skates for the season.

The Cain boys, Bill of Bruins and Jack of Canadians, managed a goal each to give their respective teams a one all tie in the pee-wee action last Saturday. In the other bracket Brad. Walker whipped in five goals to give the Red Wings a much needed 7-4 win over Rangers. Bill Forhan kept Ranger hopes alive with three goals. In Squirt League activity Ian Dick was a one man scoring show with three goals as the Bears bounced the Flyers 3-0. In the fourth game of the morning Tom Wadsworth scored all three goals for the Barons and led them to a 3-1 win over the Bisons. Murray Callaghan sniped for the Bison single.
